The Snake That Never Was!

The serpent coiled
around the tree
And said
“I sure can make you free!”
It winked
and grinned
and looked quite sly
and said
“Go on, do have a try!
Please believe me,
make me real,
Without your thought,
I can’t appeal,
For anything
you want to do is simply only up to you.”

The man of God stood strong and tall
He knew for sure that God is ALL.
In his expression of one Mind
No serpent thought could be entwined.
Indeed no error could find place
For God and man stood face to face.
And like a dream when I’m awake
There clearly never was a snake!

©Ken Cooper 1998/2024